Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

HERE'S what the United States Commissioner of Labor thought about the future of business when the panic looked blackest:

The Poor Must Be Cared for Before Legion Bonus—F.D.

At Veterans' Hospital, President Drops Hint to American Legion

RECOVERY IS FIRST

Meanwhile, Legion Convention Is to Open Monday at Miami

ROANOKE, Va.—(P)—Dedicating near here the first veterans' hospital to be built in his administration, President Roosevelt Friday reminded those who served in the World War that thousands of "under-privileged" persons were worse off than themselves and strongly implied that the payment of the bonus must await the recovery of this group.

There was no mention of the word "bonus" but the thousands who stood in the natural amphitheater heard the president make what was generally regarded as his clearest pronouncement on the issue, even though it was by inference.

He made it clear that disabled and sick veterans would be accorded the "best treatment which medical and surgical science can supply."

But he added there were hundreds of thousands of "largely forgotten" persons in the slums and "back eddies remote from the active stream of life" who, required government aid, and the elimination of this "definite drag against the return of prosperity" should be the first aim of veterans and the nation.

A sound financial policy would be followed in providing aid, he said.

He added he was sure the ex-service men would agree that the care of the "disabled, the sick, the destitute and the starving is the first thing."

Addressed Legion

The president's speech was seen by many as a move to head off any attempt to place the American Legion on record for the bonus at its Miami convention next week.

Fourteen state Legion departments and that of the District of Columbia have adopted resolutions advocating immediate cash payment. They represent about 38 per cent of the convention's voting strength.

Mr. Roosevelt gave assurance to the business world that in spending money for the down-trodden "we must have due regard for the good credit of the government of the United States."

"That means," he said, "that we cannot spend at once or in any given year all that we could usefully spend."

He said he agreed with those "kind people" who say the country is better off today than a year ago, but others who "failed to think things through forget that one cause of the

One Negro Killed and Another Hurt as Car Hits Them

Twillie Harris, 22, Dead in Hope-Blevins Road Accident

OTHER LOSES LEG

Arlis McCorkle, DeAnn, Blinded by Dust, Drives Into Them

Twillie Harris, 22-year-old negro, was killed and Lonnie Evans, another negro, was seriously injured in an automobile accident Friday night on the Hope-Blevins road.

Harris died two hours following the accident, after being removed to his home in a Hope Furniture company ambulance. Evans was rushed to Josephine hospital where physicians amputated his right leg.

Harris and Evans were struck by an automobile driven by Arlis McCorkle, DeAnn youth, who was en route to Hope.

The two negroes were among a group of several others who were walking along the road following church services.

McCorkle, apparently blinded by dust, plowed into the negroes. Harris was struck first and hurled into a ditch. Before McCorkle was able to stop, the car struck Evans who was riding on a wagon, mangle his leg.

Several other negroes including Bud Harris, father of the dead boy, William McFadden and Alex Harris, sustained minor injuries. One negro woman fainted.

After striking the wagon, the car swerved and plunged into a ditch. The driver, who was riding alone, was not hurt.

The negro Harris sustained numerous head injuries and died without regaining consciousness.

Chief of Police Clarence Baker investigated. Witnesses said McCorkle was driving at a high rate of speed.

No charges had been filed Saturday against McCorkle.

Nashville Defeats Prescott, 30 to 0

Many Hope Fans See Clash of Two Future Local Opponents

Many Hope football fans journeyed to Prescott Friday night and got an idea as to the strength of the Prescott and Nashville gridiron teams, both of which are expected to play in the Bobcat schedule later in the season.

It was the annual meeting between the two teams, Nashville winning by a score of 30 to 0.

Prescott, rated as a weaker team than in past seasons, was outwitted and outclassed, Nashville making 20 first downs to one for Prescott.

The winning team's principal gains were made by sweeping end-runs and long passes.

According to dope, the Bobcats appear to be much stronger this year than their ancient rivals—Prescott—and about three touchdowns better than Nashville.

Camden, a team that the Bobcats beat 14 to 0, holds victories over both Nashville and Prescott. Camden won over Nashville, at Camden, in an early-season game, 6 to 0.

Last week Camden defeated Prescott, 31 to 0, at Camden.

Prescott plays at Hope this year. The Nashville game will be played at Nashville, the old home town of the Bobcats' flashy quarterback—Guy Payne.

The Bobcats' next opponent, the Razorbacks of Texarkana (Ark.) High School, were beaten Friday night at Camden, 20 to 0.

The Parker-Bobcat game will be played here Friday night.

Problem of Food Eliminates Egypt as Cotton Threat

2 Million Acres Its All-Time High for Cotton Planting

POPULATION HEAVY

Averages 1,000 Per Section of Land—Food Supply Is Local

By the Extension Service Foreign cotton competition is not a threat new to America since the AAA cotton program started. For more than 40 years foreign countries have been increasing their share in the world's production. Big American cotton crops during that time did not stop the growth of foreign cotton competition, but they did periodically depress the South.

Will this foreign competition grow by leaps and bounds now that America has gone in for temperance in cotton production? Or, are there other factors which will finally limit the extent to which these countries may expand cotton acreage?

India is limited in future big expansion by her need of land for food crops. Egypt is another great competitor worth studying.

Egypt has grown cotton since the time of the Pharaohs, yet the largest acreage in any one year was 2,160,000 acres. This is probably just about the limit to the cotton acreage because the country still depends to a large degree upon its local food supply. The acreage in 1933 was 1,875,000 acres, or nearly one-third of Egypt's farm land. The cotton acreage this year is reported less than last. Egyptian cotton is irrigated and yields an average of 400 pounds per acre.

Food Is Problem As in India, there is a food supply problem in Egypt. Population averages more than 1,000 persons per square mile, or as Americans would say, per section of land. Population is growing at the rate of 200,000 to 300,000 persons per year. This increase will in the long run require for less than all the additional land which may be reclaimed.

The price of cotton in 1933-34 in Egypt in terms of Egyptian money (and that is what influences farmers) was from 2 to 21 per cent below the prices of 1932 during the picking season.

As in India, it is again seen that high cotton prices in America do not always mean high prices to foreign producers in terms of their own money. There is little incentive to the Egyptian farmer to increase cotton acreage at present. The decline in 1934 plantings bears this out.

Any permanent increase in Egyptian cotton acreage above the all-time high of 2,160,000 acres must involve reclaiming a part of the two million acres of waste land in the country.

This reclamation is estimated to cost more than 200 million dollars, which is a large sum of money for a small country.

England's Efforts England has tried hard to promote cotton growing in the largely desert Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Expensive government efforts have resulted in raising the cotton acreage from 31,000 acres in 1913 to 325,000 acres in 1932.

The Sudan is a new country with a population of less than six million Arabs and primitive tribesmen. They much prefer to live their own way, caring little or nothing for the ways of the white men. Cotton growing among them has been developed by government compulsion. In most of this country cotton has brought the first real money the natives have ever seen. Since they have little use for money, to force cotton growing the government has resorted to a poll tax which amounts to about $1 per head which must be paid in money. The natives grow little more cotton than is needed to get the money to pay the poll tax.

Cotton yields in the irrigated districts of the Sudan (there are above 300 pounds per acre, but the cost to the government and the subsidized British companies has been great. In 1930 a new disease called leaf curl cut the yield to 135 pounds per acre. No remedy has yet been found for this disease. The promoting companies, once very optimistic about future cotton growing in the Sudan, are now less hopeful.

Josephine Hospital on Approved List

Local Institution Given Rating by College of Surgeons

Josephine hospital, for the fifth consecutive year, was approved Saturday by the American College of Surgeons.

The rating given the local hospital was obtained by complying with requirements as laid down by the college.

Josephine hospital is the only one between Little Rock and Texarkana to be placed on the list.

Fly Stars-and-Stripes in Race

20 Planes Off on Race to Australia

$50,000 Stake for Swiftest Flight From London to South Seas

By the Associated Press Twenty aircraft entered in the London-to-Melbourne, Australia, air derby got off to a perfect start at dawn Saturday, with four planes forced down by bad weather and engine trouble.

Apparently in the lead were K. D. Parmenter and J. J. Moll, the Netherlands entry.

The prize posted by Sir MacPherson Robertson, Melbourne candy magnate, is a big incentive. It is the richest stake of contemporary aviation, for the double event, speed flight and handicap race.

Prizes for the speed race are: First, $50,000 and a gold cup valued at not less than $2,500; second, $7,500; third, $2,500. In the handicap race the winner will receive $10,000 and the runner-up $5,000.

Captain and Mrs. Mollison were made favorites at 12 to 1 to win the race by bookmakers in Australia. Some $25,000 (approximately $125,000) has been placed there on the great race. Considerable betting also is done in London.

The veteran Pilot G. J. Geysendarfer of the Netherlands was quoted by Australian bookies as second favorite at 15 to 1. The Englishman, C. W. A. Scott, is third at 25 to 1, while two American entries, Col. Roscoe Turner and Jacqueline Cochran were quoted at 33 to 1. Col. James C. Fitzmaurice, Irish flier, is a 50-to-1 bet.

Certificate Pool to Close Nov. 10

All Surplus Certificates Must Be Turned in by That Date

Tentative plans for closing the surplus cotton tax-exemption certificate pool for the receipt of surplus certificates on November 10 have been announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Purchase of certificates from the pool, it was emphasized, would continue so long as the pool had certificates on hand.

E. L. Deal, manager of the pool, said it was felt that all holders of surplus certificates who wish to turn them in to the pool will have had that opportunity by November 10. State allotment boards have been urged to assist producers who wish to turn in surplus certificates to the pool.

"Because we have tentatively selected a final date for receiving surplus certificates," Mr. Deal said, "it is now more urgent than ever that producers speed up the surrender of any certificates they wish to offer for sale through the pool."

The pool now has on hand orders for many more certificates than it is able to fill, Mr. Deal said. On all of these orders, the purchaser expect to pay four cents a pound, the rate fixed by Secretary Wallace as the standard selling price for surplus certificates purchased through the national pool.

Producers will be paid approximately $20 a bale for all certificates sold through the pool. When the pool is liquidated, each producer will be returned his share of any certificates the pool does not sell. These may be used next if the Bankhead Act is effective for 1935.

U. S. Oil Allowable Is Increased 14,500

WASHINGTON—(P)—The oil administration Saturday fixed the national allowable production of crude for November at 2,340,000 barrels daily, an increase of 14,500 over October. Arkansas' allowable is 30,000 daily, a decrease of 200.

Kentucky Indicts All 3 Robinsons

Kidnaper, Wife and Father Named for Sizable of Mrs. Stoll

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(P)—The fugitive Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., and his wife and father were indicted by a special federal grand jury Saturday on charges making it possible in the event of conviction that the death penalty would be fixed against all three in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

Canadian Border Watched BUFFALO, N. Y.—(P)—Federal agents established a close watch over the Canadian frontier in this section Saturday after a restaurant employee reported he was positive Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., the fleeing Louisville kidnaper, had eaten there Friday night.

Meanwhile, at Louisville the federal government impounded a special grand jury to consider indicting Robinson, his wife and father, in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville society matron.

Ballots Altered by Private Hands

Tampered With After Leaving Election Officials, Is Testimony

HAMBURG, Ark.—Evidence that the ballot boxes of Ashley county were tampered with after they left the hands of the election officials was given in circuit court here Friday.

The testimony was given by Judge Henry resumed the hearing of the case in which Wade Kitchens of Magnolia is contesting the renomination of Congressman Tilman B. Parks. Parks was renominated on the face of the returns from the run-off primary of last August but Kitchens charges that gross fraud was committed in Ashley county.

Twenty-four witnesses for Kitchens were examined Friday and testified that the ballot boxes were in proper condition and had not been tampered with when they were returned to the office of County Clerk H. E. Powell. These witnesses were election officials from Crossett, Hamburg, Parkdale, Fountain Hill, Crossett Camp, Hickory Grove and Cross Roads.

Evidence that a lawyer "knew too much" about the contents of the ballot boxes was given by Thomas E. Compere, also a lawyer. Compere said he was present when the ballot boxes were opened and were found to have been tampered with.

When the boxes were opened, Compere said that, C. T. Sims, lawyer for Kitchens, remarked that "you will find some of the keys will not fit the boxes to which they are attached."

After this remark, Compere testified, he shook his finger at Sims and said, "Be careful what you say because you are not supposed to know that is true."

County Clerk Powell, who said at the mass meeting held here recently that the ballot boxes were out of his office twice, charged his mind Friday. He said that after "mature reflection" he had decided that the boxes were removed from his office only once. His testimony was supported by his clerk, Mary Griffin.

Both the clerk and the deputy said that on Friday or Saturday, Gene Aiken, secretary of the County Committee; Willie White, member from Wilmore; and McKennon Nobles, from Mill Creek township, came to his office and opened several boxes there to ascertain whether they were undisturbed. Powell did not know how many boxes were opened.

Survey of States Shows Poll Tax Is Barrier, However

STATE LAW RULES

Poll Tax Requirement Exists in Arkansas and Virginia

WASHINGTON—(P)—A poll of the states Saturday showed that officials in most cases deny a move to prevent persons on the relief rolls from voting November 6.

The question came up when a reporter asked President Roosevelt for his views.

The president said it would be thoroughly un-American to deny the vote to a man out of work and willing to work.

Officials in several states said their poll tax requirements would make voting difficult for many of the destitute unemployed.

The Arkansas relief administration, for instance, pointed out that persons on its rolls probably would have to skimp on food to save the dollar poll tax.

Virginia officials said their voters are also required to pay a poll tax.

Nude Dancers Are Raided at Capital

Prosecutor Bailey Closes Down Carnival—19 Arrested

LITTLE ROCK—A dozen deputy sheriffs and city detectives, under direction of Prosecuting Attorney Carl Bailey, swooped down on two Main street carnivals Friday night, broke up two "girl shows," confiscated gambling devices, and arrested 19 men and women.

The prosecuting attorney said he was swamped with complaints that open gambling and "strip" shows were permitted at the carnival, one at Eleventh street and one at Seventeenth street.

"One man told me he went in to see the fan dancers at Eleventh and Main," Mr. Bailey said. "He said he paid 15 cents to see a hoochie-koochie dance, then paid 25 cents more and went into another tent where the same three girls appeared naked and put on a vulgar dance. He said that three policemen in uniform were in there watching the exhibition."

Hacking Cough Points to Lung Infection

Sometimes the bronchial tubes, which carry the air from the windpipe in the throat to the finer tissues in the lung, become distended and filled with secretions.

This condition is usually associated with some inflammation of the lung itself, leading to formation of fibrous tissue and causing the dilatation or spreading of the bronchial tubes.

The amount of material which collects is offensive to the patient and results in a good deal of hacking, coughing, and expectoration.

There are, of course, other conditions which may bring about this chronic inflammation, called bronchiectasis. If any foreign body gets into one of the main tubes and stops it up, there is swelling and an accumulation of sputum in the other tubes.

If a cancer or any other form of growth develops, blocking up any portion of the breathing tract, this condition may follow.

When the germs associated with bronchiectasis destroy considerable amounts of tissue, the material that is expectorated is thick and sometimes has a bad odor. The severity of the condition and its effect on life depend, of course, on the original cause.

If the condition follows bronchitis, or pleurisy, or pneumonia, it is likely to last longer than in cases in which it is associated with something which temporarily blocks one of the tubes.

In treating this sort of condition it is necessary to find out first just what brought on the trouble. Nowadays it is possible not only to examine the material that is expectorated, but also to pass a tube down into the lungs and to look at the inflammation directly.

It is possible also to inject certain substances into the tubes that lead into the lungs and then, by means of an X-ray picture, to find out the extent to which they have been damaged.

Sometimes persons with these conditions are helped by lying face downward in bed, so as to get the advantage of easy flow of the material out of the lungs and throat. Occasionally, inhalation of warm medicated vapors is helpful.

In some cases surgical procedures are used whereby the treatment is given directly to the lung, compressing it or stopping its activity and thus allowing the injured tissues to heal.

Most surgeons hesitate to operate on such patients, when the material that is expectorated is very large in amount and of a bad odor, because of the dangers of serious infection and death following operation.

Serious conditions of this type again emphasize the importance of getting good medical advice on the very first appearance of any serious discharge of pus, blood, fluid, or any other material from the lungs and throat.

Treated early, there is possibility of help. When the condition goes on to becoming chronic, the chances of bringing about relief are much less.

"The Folks" Is Fine Study of Iowa Life
—Ruth Suckow's New Novel Is Portrait of America

All through this generation, critics have been expecting the "great American novel" to come out of the midwest.

Recognizing this novel when it appears may be something else again; meanwhile, a pretty fair sort of candidate for the honor would seem to be Ruth Suckow's new novel of Iowa life, "The Folks."

Here is a thick, warmly human book which presents the homely, folksy background of modern America—the small town with its traditions of thrift, frugality, and that unquenchable optimism and will to believe which survive all manner of hardships and disappointment.

It is so intimate a picture of this life, in fact, that it now and then verges on the edge of dullness. For the most part, however, it is very fine stuff indeed, and it presents a scene that every American will recognize.

We get here the picture of an Iowa family. The earlier generations were true farm pioneers; their children established themselves as pillars of small town life; the present generation is scattered far afield, seeking its destiny in such cities as New York and Chicago, turning its back on the scene that produced it, but never quite cutting the ties.

And in the study of this family there is an intimate picture of the changing times that perplex modern America. The world of the older generation is giving way to something new, confusing, incalculable—something which the new generation, itself bringing the change about, is least of all able to understand.

Published by Farrar and Rinehart, "The Folks" sells for $3.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Thwarting Is Harmful to Young.

Frustration means disappointment. It can mean disappointment for a minute, or for a period of years. Small multiple frustrations can have the same effect eventually that the long one has. It is not too good for any life to have too many or be put to too severe a test, especially the young.

But although frustration has an unfavorable effect on happy and normal conduct, it seems assured to do the opposite act and to pretend or preach that no child should at any time suffer a setback to his wishes.

It is important that he does not have too many, naturally, because desire and interest need their way quite often—otherwise straight-forward impulses may be checked and seek new outlets that do more harm than the original wish.

With no desire to be technical, I feel it necessary to repeat that we cannot tell by looking at a child just how his mind is working. But enough to say that he does better, thinks better and acts better if not too often "frustrated."

Spirits Must Be Hardened
Here, as in so many other theoretical standards, we are faced with every-day life and the thousands of events that shape it—events over which the child must experience whether pleasant or otherwise.

I believe that nature provides for this in a way. If she didn't few of us would be mentally happy or balanced. As a rule, nature prepares us for the future and it would be a poor general who did not harden his recruits for the coming rigors of a campaign. I think a child can stand a moderate number of disappointments without damage.

He should learn to take certain small disappointments with a fair amount of stoicism.

At the same time it is only just to try to explain to him in many cases just why he cannot do the things he wants.

Children Lack Balm of Reason
Older people stand blocking better than children because reason comes to the rescue. Younger ones lack this saving whisper. It is for us to supply it when we can.

There are times when disappointment may be borne without any words or explanations at all. There should be a nice mixture of unqualified and qualified acceptance. In their short lives, children have acquired at least some sense of fitness and right, and at any rate they should have confidence in a parent's decisions without too much feeling of injustice.

But they cannot do so always, when we feel that children are bewildered and outraged by a disappointment, it is sensible to explain, so that the smart won't linger. On the other hand, no child can be allowed complete freedom if he is to stand the world's hard knocks when he is older, or have no let-backs.

And so it leaves us just where we started. Frustration is good and it is bad. It is for the parent to decide when things are getting too one-sided and correct matters.

There are no two ways about it. If you want to have a beautiful figure, you simply must do something to keep joints from getting stiff, muscles from becoming flabby and your backbone and neck from being tense and tired.

When you get up in the morning, stand barefooted with arms hanging loosely at your sides. Bend your

Now, keeping your body limp, let your trunk fall forward as far as it will go. Swing it around to the left, to the right and slightly backward. Forget about your head. If you are as relaxed as you should be, it will swing as loosely as your arms.

Here's another exercise: Lie down on the floor, stretching your arms above your head, pointing your toes downward. Feel your back-

The Claw of the Forgotten Murder

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When DAN BLEEKER, publisher of The Blade, learns that CHARLES MORDEN, police reporter, has been mysteriously killed, he determines to employ SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminalologist, to solve the murder.

Morden had been inclined to learn all he could about FRANK H. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, who had been threatened by the man arrested, giving the name of Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS, was an impostor. The Blade published a retraction.

Then MORDEN is found dead and a few hours later comes news that Cathay is dead—possibly poisoned.

Sidney Griff undertakes the case. He calls on Cathay's doctor and his lawyer, CHARLES BLEEKER. Later Griff goes to see MRS. CATHAY. When he tells her of Morden's death she faints. Griff leaves, saying to the taxi driver, "Get me to a public telephone."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

THE cab driver drove at high speed down the winding road which led from the big Cathay home to the nearest shopping boulevard. He pulled in before a drug store and held the door of the car open.

Sidney Griff entered the drug store, put through a long distance call to Dan Bleeker of The Blade.

"The woman in the case," he said, "has employed Carl Racine of the Racine Detective Bureau. She ordered up her car for him, to take him to the city. She is obviously very much frightened. It would probably be advisable for you to have two of your best men waiting along the boulevard. I believe that you are familiar with her car and can give the men a description of it. Doubtless some of your reporters know Racine personally. When he passes have them drop in behind and see if they can follow him. I think he has been sent upon a mission of the greatest importance—a mission which requires some skill and daring to handle. Racine was hostile when I met him."

Bleeker's reply was directly to the point.

"When did they leave?" he asked.

"Approximately 15 minutes ago."

"The road will be covered," Bleeker said. "We have just received assurances from the authorities at Riverview that an autopsy will be ordered."

Griff gave a low whistle.

"You must," he said, "have exerted considerable pressure."

"We did," said Bleeker, "but we received unexpected reinforcements from a confidential communication made to the authorities by one of the physicians in the case. It represented a complete change of attitude on his part since an earlier interview. I was wondering if, perhaps, your presence in Riverview had been responsible for the physician's change of attitude."

Sidney Griff laughed.

"My presence in Riverview," he said, "has been responsible for a lot of things. I'm playing human checkers. I'll see you this evening."

There were two parchment-shaded lamps burning in the room but the glow they gave was subdued. Sidney Griff, attired in lounging suit and long woolen bathrobe, stared into the spiraling smoke from his cigarette. Across from him, Dan Bleeker seemed very much excited.

"Anything about Decker?" he asked. "Any news for us?"

Griff's face froze into rigid impassivity.

"No," he said.

Bleeker spoke rapidly. "Remember," he said, "you're going to give us the broad's when the time comes. You know, Griff, there's something uncanny about you, at that."

Griff stared through the cigarette smoke and said, "I presume you're about to tell me that you've found the woman in the case."

"We know who she is," Bleeker said. "We haven't found her. That bunch of yours was one of the most remarkable things I've ever encountered."

"Go ahead," Griff said, "tell me about it."

"We got the lead not over half an hour after I was talking with you on the long distance telephone from Riverview," Bleeker said. "Bill Osborne, one of our reporters, made a check on a disappearance case which had been reported by a Miss Alice Lorton, 24, residing at the Elite apartments, 319 Robinson street. She had reported the disappearance of Esther Ordway, 22, who shared her apartment."

The intense nervousness which had characterized the criminalologist the night before seemed to have left him now. He stretched out, physically relaxed, the only sign of nervousness being the quick, vigorous puff on the cigarette which indicated an inner tension.

"That," he said, "is what I like about dealing with you newspaper chaps. You get all of the essential information and pass it on in a concise manner. Tell me some more about Alice Lorton."

"You mean about Esther Ordway, the one who disappeared?" asked Bleeker.

Sidney Griff shook his head.

"No," he said, "about Alice Lorton, the one who reported her disappearance."

BLEEKER looked mildly surprised.

"I didn't talk with her personally," he said. "The reporters gathered the information. She is, I understand, blond, blue-eyed and pretty—not outstandingly beautiful, you understand, but pretty."

"Go ahead," Griff said. "I want to know everything I can about her. I want to get a complete picture."

"Let me tell you first about the apartment and about Esther Ordway," Bleeker said.

Griff once more extended his right arm, with the fingers outstretched, seemed to be groping his way through a maze of intricate thoughts.

"All right, go on," he said almost dreamily.

"Alice Lorton said this Ordway

Negro Explains How to Take the Census

COVINGTON, La.—(AP)—The District Court here Thursday was told how to estimate the number of persons at a dance even after they left.

The "ex post facto" calculator, a negro, was a witness in a manslaughter case in which two negroes were charged with shooting another negro during a dance.

"You say a gang of people ran out during the shooting?" the district attorney asked.

"Yassum, dey sho did!"

"How many were at the dance?"

"Dey wuz 'round 65 or 70."

"Are you sure?"

"Nawwah, but ah know's dey wuz more'n 60 hats found in de room de nex' mawnin'."

VALUES

Few people realize the true value of their newspaper. To them it has become such a commonplace item in their daily routine that they give no thought to the actual cost of producing their paper, or to the actual value they receive by its daily appearance in their homes.

But, if they could visualize the vast amount of capital that is invested in news services, special features, distant correspondents, typesetting and printing equipment, and the thousand and one other items that go to make a daily paper interesting, timely and accurate, they would be amazed at their ability to purchase their paper for a few cents.

And, this costly and valuable service is made possible by those merchants and manufacturers who consistently advertise in your paper's columns. To them is justly due your patronage, for they are making it possible for you to receive a complete and comprehensive digest of local and world wide events each day.

All the brave world's show!

Joy with the sunrise
Creeping in at dawn,
Peace when the stars shine,
After day is gone.

Nothing of folly,
Naught of fear or fear,
Courage for keeping
In the now and here!

Leave for tomorrow
All tomorrow holds,
Touch not the curtain
That the future folds.

J. R. Williams, Miss Sybil Williams, Pete Brown, Dwight Ridgill and Frank Drake were among the Hope fans seeing the football game in Hot Springs, Friday night.

The R. D. Franklins have moved into the beautiful new house recently completed by the R. V. Herndinos on South Main street.

The Presbyterian church will open a school of Home Missions with dinner Monday evening at 6:30 at the church. The school will continue through Thursday evening, announcements being made each day.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Williams and Mrs. Ab Williams were Friday visitors in Little Rock.

Mrs. Rupert Blakey of Little Rock spent Friday with her mother, Mrs. L. E. Singleton and other relatives.

With the passing of October one of the most important months in the year for flower planting, including dahlias, phlox, larkspur, petunias and a number of other spring bloomers, the Hope Garden club held an unusually interesting and instructive meeting on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Black on North Louisiana street. Great inspiration was given from the exquisite arrangement of the decorations composed of gorgeous dahlias, lovely roses and a most attractive variety of other fall bloomers greeting the guests as they entered the spacious reception suite of the Black home. The president, Mrs. K. G. McRae, opened the meeting with a short prayer and before going into the regular routine of business told the club of the beautiful flowers and shrubs she had enjoyed seeing on her recent visit to Fayetteville. Following the reading of the minutes by the secretary, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Black, program leader, for the afternoon, who introduced Mrs. A. D. Brannon who gave a most instructive talk on when and how to plant bulbs, giving the club the benefit she has gained from her wide experience in flower culture. Mrs. R. M. Bryant read a poem

Will Rogers Here in "Judge Priest"

Famed Irvin S. Cobb Story at Saenger, Beginning Sunday

Will Rogers—in the most human and lovable role he has yet played—That is the screen play promised at the Saenger theater, where Will's latest picture, "Judge Priest," begins an engagement Sunday.

According to advance reports, the star has never been so well suited as by this screen character, the shrewd, kindly but strong-willed Kentucky jurist, who is already famous in the stories of Irvin S. Cobb, perhaps America's most noted humorist.

With his characterization of the "Judge," Rogers is said to add a new and original figure to his all-American gallery, which includes such memorable portraits as David Harum, Mr. Skitch, Dr. Bull and the Connecticut Yankee.

This time he plays a wise old fellow who, following the Civil war, has settled down in his native Kentucky village with his Confederate cronies. The story opens in his court room on a last spring day in 1890.

One does not expect drama in a village, perhaps, but in "Judge Priest" plenty of it transpires, according to advance accounts. The Judge's nephew, a novice lawyer, and his sweetheart, a girl whose birth is shrouded in mystery, figure importantly in the touching and dramatic story. Always there is Judge Priest, who dilutes justice with the milk of human kindness and who helps to shoulder the troubles of the town.

Three exceptionally good short units complete the program.

Miss Olive Jackson of the State Highway Department was called to Arkadelphia Friday on account of the illness of her mother.

Rev. T. A. Middlebrooks has returned from a visit with relatives in Nacadoches, Texas.

Circle No. 5 of the W. M. S. of the First Baptist church will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Wallace R. Rogers, South Elm street, with Mrs. W. P. Agee and Mrs. H. A. Fisk as associate hostesses.

Miss Annis Cagle of Ouachita college, Arkadelphia, is spending the week end with Mrs. L. E. Singleton and other relatives.

Circles one and four of the First Baptist W. M. U. will meet Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. F. L. Fudgett, Mrs. Anna Lykins and Mrs. J. L. Fritz assisting hostesses. Cars will be at the church at 2:15.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bustin entertained their mother, Mrs. H. S. Beuer at their home in Bluff City with a surprise birthday shower and picnic luncheon in honor of her 73rd birthday. The table was laid in the front yard and was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. A large white cake was placed in the center of the table with the number 73 outlined with pink candles. Those present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beuer and family of Bluff City, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Parker, Mrs. Bert Moody, Lena and Leroy Henry of Hope, Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis of Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bolls of Laneburg, Clyde Beuer and sons, Roxie Lee Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bustin and family. All of Mrs. Beuer's children were present but two, Mrs. L. R. Brooks of Thico, and E. D. Beuer who resides in Texas. The honoree was the recipient of many lovely gifts and good wishes for many more happy birthdays.

Misses Whitfield and Josephine Cannon, teacher and student respectfully at Ouachita college, will arrive in Hope Saturday to spend the week-end with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Cannon. They will be accompanied here by Miss Bath Remley, assistant librarian at Ouachita.

H. O. Stuart of Ozan, underwent an operation Saturday morning at Josephine hospital.

Mrs. Stanley E. White, wife of The Star's advertising manager, arrived in Hope Friday to make their new home at 1205 South Elm street. Mrs. White is the daughter of Arthur Aull, editor of the Lamar (Mo.) Democrat.

Boy Scouts

District Meeting
George W. Powell, Scout Executive of the Tex-Ark Boy Scout Area, from Texarkana, assisted by George F. X. Strasser, chairman of the Hempstead County District, preside over a District meeting Friday evening. The transfer of the Boy Scout Troop at Emmet from the El Dorado Area to this Area was officially voted upon by the district. Ramey Garland is the Scoutmaster. After reviewing the record of the District during the past five months, "Close the Gap" campaign was explained. One troop in this District showed a loss. Rev. Wallace Rogers, first vice chairman of the District, was instructed to assist Dr. A. W. Hudson, Scoutmaster at Prescott, to prepare for a Court of Honor at Prescott on December 4. A Scoutmasters Training School opens at the Texarkana Junior College Monday, the 22nd. Several Scoutmasters, with the District Chairman, will attend the school on Monday and Tuesday nights during the next four weeks.

Legion Convention Monday
MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—The first official business of the American Legion's national convention here was transacted Friday as thousands of veterans moved en masse for the opening session Monday.

The resolutions committee began its task of assigning the more than 608 petitions already received at headquarters to the proper convention committees for study and report.

At the same time, National Adjutant Frank E. Samuel replied to "unjust" accusations by what he termed "misinformed" critics with the statement: "Less than 10 per cent of American Legion members have ever received any compensation for disability."

Samuel, reviewing the year, said the 11,000 posts of the nation spent "hundreds of thousands of dollars" in fulfilling a continuous program of community service.

"The benefits that the Legion provides for its communities total many millions of dollars each year," he said.

Officials estimated 10,000 visitors are already here, and the big rush starts Saturday from Eastern and Midwestern cities.

Hitler's Agent Hit by German Clergy

150 Churchmen Will Repudiate Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller

BERLIN, Germany—(AP)—A "declaration of independence" repudiating Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller and all his works will be signed Saturday by 150 opposition churchmen from all parts of the Reich gathered here, it was learned Friday night.

Action of the laymen and clergy-men assembled for the second national convention of the so-called Confessional Synod founded last May, will bring out into the open the split between the German National Protestant church, headed by Mueller, and its opposition.

Delegates still were deliberating as to the wording of their resolution, said Mueller, but it was learned they would affirm that they alone constitute the true German Evangelical church.

The Confessional Synod will notify all Protestant churches in the Reich as soon as their act of independence is accomplished, and will inform the government, intimating that they will pay no more church taxes in the future.

Hauptmann Taken to Jersey Trial

Hastily Removed From New York Following Appeal's Defeat

NEW YORK—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was started for Flemington, N. J., Friday night to stand trial on a charge of slaying the Lindbergh baby.

Heavily guarded, the ex-convict was taken from the Bronx county jail in a private car an hour and a half after he lost an appeal from the extradition order.

Capt. J. J. Lamb of the New Jersey state police was in charge of the officers accompanying him to the trial.

The officers completed arrangements for the transfer as soon as the five justices of the Appellate Division dismissed Hauptmann's appeal.

Of a last-minute plea by Hauptmann's lawyer that he had new evidence to show the prisoner was in New York the day of the kidnapping, the justices said:

"This contention is in direct conflict with documentary evidence already in the record."

The justices handed down their opinion an hour after they had listened, in a crowded courtroom, to the pleadings of James M. Pavcett, Hauptmann's lawyer.

Gasoline Is Cut to 19 Cents Here

Regular Grade Reduced to 18.9—or 11.4 Cents Before Taxes

A survey of Hope Saturday showed that all major companies were selling regular gasoline at 18.9 cents per gallon which represents a 2-cent drop from last week. The price before taxes is 11.4 cents.

Ethyl gasoline was selling at 20.9 cents per gallon, down 2 cents from the posted price of last week.

The price range Saturday includes a 6½ cent state tax and a 1-cent per gallon federal tax.

Price War Continues
NEW YORK—(AP)—The wave of price-cutting in gasoline continued Friday with announcements of new reductions by several of the large refining and distributing companies.

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey posted a reduction of ½ cent a gallon at Baltimore, making the new service station price 8½ cents a gallon, excluding five cents in taxes. The Jersey company's subsidiary, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, effective today, reduced gasoline prices ½ cent at Knoxville, Tenn., to 10 cents a gallon on regular grades, exclusive of taxes.

Mexico Moves to Abolish Religion

Catholic Bishop Expelled—May Create Atheistic State

MEXICO, N. F.—(AP)—The Chamber of Deputies voted Friday night to request President Abelardo Rodriguez to expel all Catholic bishops and archbishops from Mexico as a step "towards solving the Catholic question permanently."

Several speakers, in a stormy session in which Catholics were charged with supporting the current agitation against the government's plan for socialistic education, urged creation of an atheistic state by abolishing all religion.

The proposal for expulsion of Catholic bishops and archbishops was made by Deputy Luis Enrique Erro, and was approved unanimously by the chamber.

"We must open the minds of the people by teaching them to see the world in the light of science," Erro said. "We cannot do this while the church makes them believe in God. We must tell them that God is a myth, a word, a grotesque thing."

A comparatively small number of high officials of the Catholic church remain in Mexico, many having left the country at the height of the anti-church movement several years ago.

The senate approved the constitutional reform to make socialistic education compulsory. The measure will be sent to the 29 state legislatures. Approval of two-thirds is necessary to make it effective.

Mellon Blasted in Icke's Speech

Cabinet Officer Opens Democratic Drive in Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—(AP)—Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes Friday night brought the Roosevelt administration into the bitter Pennsylvania political campaign with a declaration that the "New Deal" is the only issue.

Ickes said the Republican party no longer is the "party of Abraham Lincoln, devoted to the welfare of the average man and woman," but one in which "wealth and special privilege are its chief concern."

Criticizing Andrew W. Mellon, three times secretary of the Treasury and for years a stalwart of Republicanism in Pennsylvania, he charged:

"He was one of those chiefly responsible for the crash of 1929 and one of the largest contributors to the slush fund that has served to lubricate the political machine that has made possible the reactionary Republican majority in this state."

Of Senator David A. Reed, critic of New Deal policies, whom he termed "the lugubrious Senator Reed," the secretary said:

"With mourning band on the left arm and a bit of extra crepe for a handkerchief, he loves to go from place to place bemoaning the loss of liberties of rich clients whom he assumes to be people of lugubriously predicting early fall of the republic since it no longer is in the safe possessive grip of Mr. Mellon and his associates."

Employment Hurt by Textile Strike

September Payroll Index Drops Back to October, 1931, Level

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The textile strike was reported Friday by Secretary Perkins to have brought September industrial employment down to the October, 1931 level.

The labor secretary said that an estimated decrease of 246,000 workers in the textile industries had turned what might have been a gain of 116,000 into a loss compared with August.

The decrease in textiles, however, did not represent the total number of strikers, since the department's figures did not cover the whole industry and included the dyeing and finishing branches which did not strike.

A great increase in employment in the retail trade, particularly in chain stores and stores owned by manufacturers, was noted as encouraging by Miss Perkins. Strong sales of clothing might result in an unusual increase in clothing manufacture employment this month, she said.

Along with retail trade, coal mining, building construction, dyeing and cleaning and power and light industries showed "pronounced gains." Iron and steel, hardware, automobiles and boots and shoes.

September employment in recent years ordinarily has shown increases over August. Last year the department's index went up 4 per cent.

The fair motorist was speeding through the sleepy village when a policeman stepped out on the road in front of her and forced her to stop.

"What have I done?" she asked innocently.

"You were traveling at forty miles an hour," replied the constable, taking out his notebook.

"Forty miles an hour!" echoed the fair motorist. "Why, I haven't been out an hour!"

The policeman scratched his head with his pencil before replying. "Carry on, then. That's a new one on me,"—London Opinion.

Hot Springs Beats Little Rock 13-0

Conquerors of Hope Loom Up as Next State Champions

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—The largest football crowd in Hot Springs history, approximately 6,500, went delirious with joy as the Hot Springs High School Trojans defeated the Little Rock High School Tigers 13 to 0, here Friday night.

Hot Springs took the lead with a touchdown in the second quarter when Paul Longinotti intercepted a pass on the Hot Springs 35-yard line and sprinted to the Little Rock 45-yard line. Then Longinotti tossed, a long pass to Wilbur Green, an end, who scored.

Hot Springs cinched the victory in the final period when Little Rock was seriously threatening to tie the score. Intercepting a Little Rock pass, Green sprinted almost the length of the field to score again.

It was home-coming night for Hot Springs and the Trojans celebrated it with their fifth consecutive victory of the season.

It was the first time that a Hot Springs eleven ever defeated a team coached by Earl Quigley. The nearest the Trojans came was last Thanksgiving Day when the held the Tigers to a 13-to-6 score.

The same Paul Longinotti also was in the 1933 line-up but he has developed from a good player into a sensational performer.

To write about this Longinotti, would require volumes. Admittedly one of the best passers in Arkansas, the man who can outstep him are as scarce as wrinkles in a pigskin. In every period he was a threat. He had able assistance from his entire team, including the captain and fullback, Ken Lovell, and Wilbur Green, crack end, who in the last two minutes of play intercepted a fumbled pass and raced 85 yards for a touchdown.

Before Green practically "iced" the verdict, Little Rock threatened dangerously twice in the fourth period. The first came when McCully, reserve quarterback, caught Paul Longinotti's punt on the Hot Springs 45-yard line and carried it to the 25. The speedy Ben Russell, who went in at halfback, on a cut-back dashed to the Hot Springs 11 for a first down.

But Wilfred Thorpe was halted twice and Raymond Trussell intercepted McCully's pass on the Hot Springs 10-yard line.

Talk About the Seethe!
Proprietor of Mountain Hotel (to newly arrived guest)—"This is your room, sir. If you want a fine view over the mountains, put a frame in the slot and the shutters open for five minutes."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Plate glass made in this country annually would pave a road 18 feet wide from Boston to New Orleans.

When an Eskimo dies, his body is removed through a hole cut in the back of the igloo. This hole is then sealed up so that death will not pay another visit.
